Parking lot lease no; study gets O.K.

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis leaders refused an offer to lease a Beach Boulevard parking lot Tuesday, but agreed to spend up to $12,000 to study parking availability and options in the downtown area.

The action came during a meeting where several citizens chided the city council and the administration for a lack of vision and planning, and for letting important matters slip through the cracks.

"Who runs this city?" asked

Franya Etheridge, a citizen who attends most council meetings and actively tracks planning and zoning issues.

The fireworks were set to ignite when two members of the Murphy family, brothers Ray and Ken, offered to lease the city the parking lot that sits next to the Fire Dog Saloon, for $4,786.77 per month.

Until last week, the city had offered the lot as a free public parking facility, under a hazy arrangement that involved the Florida property-owner, Hancock Bank and the municipality.

Mayor Eddie Favre said a municipal search found nothing in writing covering the parking lot since the 1960's, when there was, apparently, some type of lease agreement. Long after the lease lapsed, however, the city paved the lot and hung a municipal parking lot sign at its entrance.

Two weeks ago, the Murphys notified the city that they are the new landlords of the lot, and prepared an entranceway in anticipation of converting it to a paying enterprise.

Tuesday, the Murphys went to city council with an offer to keep it open to the general public for free; but it would cost the city some $60,000 a year. Council members literally wished the Murphys "lots of luck" in their new commercial enterprise, and said they are unwilling to lease the lot.

The Murphys said they've obtained a lease purchase arrangement on the property, which they view as a key element in landing a hotel development for downtown.

While those plans are being finalized, however, the Murphys said they wanted to negotiate an agreement for free parking downtown, with the city leasing 40 spaces at $4 per day, and paying all insurance and taxes on the lot. In addition, the Murphys asked that the city waive all parking

Judge's rule favors Casino World foes

BY ED LEPOMA

A federal judge in Hattiesburg has dismissed a lawsuit filed by developers of the proposed Casino World gambling resort that sought to stop local citizens and environmental groups from questioning the validity of a construction permit issued to developers by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

On June 30, U.S. Judge

Charles W. Pickering Sr., of the Southern District, held that the court lacked jurisdiction since there was no case or controversies between the parties that can be tried. He said Casino World suffered no actual injury and filed the lawsuit as a "pre-emptive strike."

County school board approves $40M budget

BY GEOFF BELCHER

For the third year in a row, the Hancock County School Board has approved a budget in excess of $40 million.

In their regular session Tuesday, board members voted to approve a $40,705,051 budget for the 1999-2000 school year.

"About $17 million of that is for construction," Superintendent Terry Randolph told board members Tuesday. "Our normal budget would be around $23 million."

Last year, the board approved a $49,435,270 total operating budget, representing a 17.99 percent increase over the previous year.

"We had floated over a $20 million bond issue in May '97," Board President Cheryl Bennett said Tuesday night. "As a result of that... we have exceeded our normal budget by at least $20 million for the last couple of years. Hopefully next year, the construction will be diminished quite a bit."

Prior to Tuesday's budget approval, the board conducted two workshops on the subject and conducted a public hearing. In order to become official, the budget must now be approved by the state and, Bennett said, "be spread across the minutes of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors."

While the board is spending more than usual, it was able to save a little money in other areas.

Board members voted to hold a $10,097 payment for some architectural services on the new elementary school project to the firms Guild, Jaubert and Hardy, and Johnson, Bailey,

Lanfill ballot wording seeks Reno approval

BY ED LEPOMA

The county attorney and opponents to a landfill in Hancock County have agreed to the wording which will be put before voters in the November 3 general election.

At Tuesday's recess meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Gerald Gex said he and attorney Ronnie Artigues have worked out the propositions which will be placed on the ballot with Mary Sinders of Waveland, who heads Citizens for Responsible Dumping in Hancock County. Sinders was allowed to make one change to what was presented to supervisors.

On November 3, voters will be confronted with two propositions, and an explanation on what they will accomplish should they vote for or against each proposition.

Proposition #1 will ask: Are you for or against the establishment of a privately owned landfill in the buffer zone surrounding Stennis Space Center or anywhere in Hancock County?

The explanation points out a FOR vote for this proposition means that citizens want a privately owned landfill in Hancock County that might take out-of-state garbage.

An AGAINST vote means that citizens do not want a privately owned landfill in Hancock County that may take out-of-state garbage.

Proposition #2 will ask voters: If you oppose a privately owned landfill in Hancock County, are you for or against the proposition that any sanitary landfill in Hancock County be county-owned, maintained and operated under the jurisdiction of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors with refuse accepted only from within Hancock County and neighboring counties in Mississippi?

A FOR vote means that you oppose a privately owned landfill in Hancock County, and if it is determined that a landfill is

Vandals hit pier lights

BY ED LEPOMA

Vandals have now knocked out all the new lights on the Dunbar Pier in the Cedar Point area.

District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand showed her frustration over the situation. "I might sit in a boat at night under the pier with a baseball bat and catch the little hoodlums," she said.

The popular fishing pier was 99 percent completed in January at a cost of $121,273. It had been heavily damaged by a February freak storm and high tides, then completely destroyed last September when Hurricane Georges came nearby.

Supervisors used a combination of federal and Seawall funds to rebuild the pier, and later let a contract for $5,000 to provide lights.

Shortly after the lights were installed in early June, Cowand discovered that vandals had tried to pull two of the lights from their casings running alongside the pier.

This week she reported all the fixtures were broken.

She has asked the Bay St. Louis Police Department to beef up surveillance of the pier at night.

Residents who see any vandalism occurring at the Dunbar Pier should call the Bay Police at 467-9221 or the Hancock County Sheriff's Department at 467-5101.

Oak Harbor group wins court battle

BY ED LEPOMA

Oak Harbor residents opposed to a convenience store and service station proposed at the entrance to their subdivision in Pearlinton have won their Circuit Court challenge.

But Judge Kosta Vlahos said the developer, J.C. Breshear of Annajays Investments, may still petition the Hancock Planning Commission to re-parcel his lot, then request another special exception in order to go forward with the proposed development fronting on old U.S. Hwy. 90 and Florida Boulevard.

The decision, reversing and remanding the decision by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors that upheld the special exception, was handed down June 10, and took more than a year and a half to wind its way through the Circuit Court system.

Residents filed suit in November of 1997, and they have also filed another court challenge to a mini-warehouse that Breshear has gotten permission to build on the south side of Hwy. 90.

In his ruling, Vlahos sided with residents who asserted that incorrect legal standards were applied by the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors in considering An-

Bay studies final drainage estimates

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bids for the final leg of the city's drainage package are under study, with the apparent low bidder slightly under estimates for the project.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the apparent low bid of $1,121,283, from Kappa Development, is under review by city officials and project engineers.

Colom Construction Co., which won the contract for the first two segments of the project, had bid the final piece at $1.4 million.

Action on the bids is expected later this month.

In other matters at its Tuesday meeting, City Council accepted plans for a new RV park on Casino Magic Drive, with a set of stipulations concerning low long recreational vehicles may use the facility.

Council agreed to limit users' stay to 90 days between January 1 and March 31, accommodating "snowbirds" from the north. Otherwise, stays will be limited to 30 days.

Council also stipulated the minimum size of RVs would be 16 feet in length.

The park's developer, Ira Hatchett, said his park would be a "first class operation" with 30 camp slots initially. "We plan to have a very upscale RV Park," said Hatchett, "something that the whole community can be proud of."

In another zoning matter, council agreed to allow use of the structure at 720 Dunbar Avenue as a full service beauty salon, with hair styling and therapeutic massage services. Half the structure will be used as a professional office.

Council also approved a site plan for the new Auto Discount Parts business that's under construction on Highway 90. The Planning and Zoning Commission earlier had approved the site plan, but construction began before the details made it to council.

City officials said they weren't sure why the construction permit was issued before the council had a chance to review the project. A representative to the company assured council that as many trees as possible would be retained on the property, and landscaping would make the site attractive.

Thomas was one of more than 2,500 teachers from around the country who were selected to receive the 1999 award. The winners received a total of more than $1.29 million in grants for their schools or school districts.

Thomas teaches U.S. history, Mississippi studies, world geography and history 7 and sponsors the Youth Legislature program at OLA.

She has a BS degree from Jackson State University and post-graduate work at William Carey College, University of Southern Mississippi and Xavier University. She is a member of St. Rose de Lima Parish in Bay St. Louis.

Board names new elementary

After months of asking parents, students and the community for assistance in naming the Hancock County School District's new elementary school facility, the Hancock County Board of Education has selected East Hancock Elementary as the name for the school.

East Hancock received 463 votes of 1,096 ballots returned to the superintendent's office, and other names voted on included Sandy Creek, Bayou Woods and Kiln Elementary.

The new elementary, located at 4221 Kiln-DeLisle Road, is situated on a 12-acre site approximately 2.5 miles east of the intersection of Hwy. 603 and Kiln-DeLisle Road.

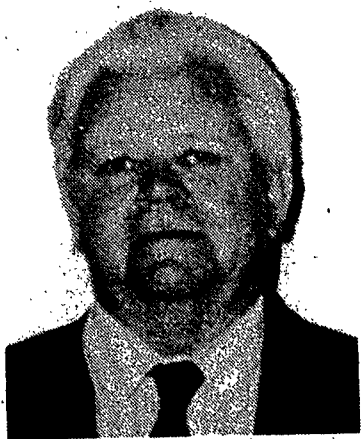

GM&R Construction is working diligently to complete the 67,000 square foot facility that will accommodate up to 700 kindergarten through fifth grade students.

Crews labor daily to complete the administration building, classroom wing, cafeteria and gymnasium on the campus.

Cheryl Ramseyer, East Hancock Elementary principal, reports that the staff has recently worked together to develop a mission statement for the new facility that states, "East Hancock Elementary School is a nurturing community dedicated to academic excellence for all children. Our curriculum is designed to foster critical thinking, problem solving, communication and social skills in an environment that encourages a sense of pride and a lifetime love of learning."

For history buffs, it's a step back in time; for old-timers, a trip down memory lane; for newcomers, a revelation of the Gulf Coast's ascent as a rediscovered hot spot for tourists and entrepreneurs alike.

Hancock Bank's centennial anniversary exhibit serpentine through the lobby of One Hancock Plaza corporate headquarters in Gulfport, chronicling the last 100 years of economic development throughout South Mississippi and Louisiana.

The captioned pictorial timeline spotlights pivotal moments during the Gulf Coast's growth from sleepy seaside retreat to international vacation and business destination and highlights Hancock's role in spurring Gulf South communities toward economic prosperity.

At Hancock Bank, we've been involved in helping our Gulf Coast hometowns grow since 1899. As we celebrate Hancock's 100th birthday, we're pleased to share the story of our area's rich, diverse heritage with customers and friends," said Hancock Bank President George A. Schloegel.

Schloegel invited citizens — particularly students — to study the One Hancock Plaza display to learn more about Gulf Coast history as well as the impact of local business and industry on the Gulf South and national economies.

"We've all grown up together — our communities and Hancock Bank. Thanks to our shareholders, customers and employees, we've evolved from our original turn-of-the-century wood-frame site in Bay St. Louis to a multi-billion-dollar, multi-state, full-service financial institution," said Schloegel.

Schloegel also mentioned that the display and other bank centennial activities coincide with reconstruction of the Ship Island lighthouse — Hancock's corporate hallmark — according to original 1996 blueprints. Embers from a careless campfire destroyed the Gulf Coast landmark in 1972.

Hancock will feature the main centennial display at One Hancock Plaza through September 1999. This summer, Hancock's corporate marketing department will schedule a smaller, traveling centennial display at selected Hancock sites and community events in Jackson, Harrison and Hancock counties.

With 97 full-service offices and 150 automated teller machines throughout South Mississippi and Louisiana, Hancock Bank stands as one of the strongest, safest financial institutions in the United States, according to Veribanc, Inc.

Hancock Holding Company, parent company of Hancock Bank in Gulfport, Hancock Bank of Louisiana in Baton Rouge, and American Security Bank of Ville Platte, La., has assets exceeding $3 billion.

Bank subsidiaries include Hancock Investment Services, Inc., Hancock Insurance Agency, Hancock Mortgage Corporation and Harrison Finance Company.

Hancock Bank celebrates its centennial anniversary Oct. 9.

Centennial exhibit

United States Forestry Services staff officer Joe Clayton, left, of Jackson discusses reconstruction of the Ship Island lighthouse — Hancock Bank's corporate hallmark — with fellow staff officer Teresa McWhirt, center, of Jackson and acting Southern Regional Recreation Director Paul Wright of Atlanta, Ga. Among historical highlights featured in Hancock's Centennial exhibit at One Hancock Plaza in Gulfport, the lighthouse remained a familiar Coast landmark until embers from a careless campfire reduced the structure to ashes in 1972. Spearheaded by Friends of the Gulf Islands National Seashore, with support from Hancock Bank and the Forestry Service, lighthouse reconstruction coincides with Hancock's 100th year of service to the Gulf South. ### Student workers entering job market responsible for unemployment rise

An influx of student job seekers caused the state's unemployment rate to rise during May from a record-setting low rate in April, the Mississippi Employment Security Commission (MESC) announced.

The May rate was 4.9 percent compared to the 4.0 percent recorded in April which was a 25-year low rate.

The national rate for May was 4.0 percent.

"Traditionally the unemployment rate rises in May due to the first wave of student job seekers seeking work," said MESC Executive Director Thomas E. Lord.

"In fact, we expect the rate for June to be ever higher when the full effect of student job seekers entering the job market is felt."

Most counties recorded a rise in joblessness. Twenty-nine counties matched or bettered the state rate and only seven registered double-digit rates. Oktibbeha County posted the lowest rate at 2.0 percent followed closely by Lafayette County with a rate of 2.2 percent and Rankin County with a rate of 2.3 percent. Jefferson County with a rate of 19.7 percent recorded the state's highest rate.

The May figures showed that 1,214,500 Mississippians were employed during the month, while 62,200 were unemployed, a gain of 11,000 unemployed from the prior month.

Lord noted that the May 1999 unemployment figure of 4.9 percent was well below the rate for May of last year when the figure stood at 5.5 percent.

Parking

requirements for businesses in the downtown area.

Council member James Thrifflay was the only official showing any inclination to talk further on the subject, saying perhaps the city could come to some agreement with the Murphys.

He also congratulated the Murphys for pursuing the hotel development. In the meantime, Thrifflay said he's sure the city can find an extra 30 parking spaces downtown by re-designating certain areas on the street for parking.

That, said Ken Murphy, is indicative of a larger city problem. "The problem is no one's allowing for growth. You make up 30 spaces today, but how about tomorrow?" Ken Murphy said he went to the meeting without much hope that the city would accept their lease offer, which was not to be a permanent arrangement in any case.

"We were hoping the city wanted to help the people, the merchants, while we're working out a feasibility study" for the hotel idea, said Murphy.

"We're not here begging the city to lease this property. In fact, we didn't expect you would."

One by one, city council members rebuffed the proposal, however.

"I wish y'all the best of luck," said council member Tad Black. "...God speed be with you." Black said he would be personally willing to pay an hourly fee to, for instance, go to Dan B's Restaurant and Bar across the street and have a po' boy.

Council president Carleen Moran said $5,000 a month to lease the entire lot was out of the question. "The city doesn't have the funds to do it, and I don't have the inclination to do it."

Council members James Rutherford and Connie Lampley echoed those sentiments. Lampley said she also had other reasons she was ill inclined to negotiate the matter, but she did not detail them.

Meanwhile, Ray Murphy said the city has attached strings to the Murphy's permit to operate the lot commercially. He said those strings would require the Murphys to repair "certain things" in the parking lot which were in conflict with some city ordinance.

Favre said the city's zoning ordinance would have to be complied with, if the lot is operated commercially.

"If the city didn't comply with it for 20-something years, and y'all didn't fix it, I'm not going to," Ray Murphy said. "...Without a fight, it's not going to happen. How can you put yourself above the law? Don't throw stones when you live in a glass house."

After the meeting, Favre said the city has notified the Murphys that their privilege license to operate the commercial lot will require compliance with the zoning ordinance. He said there is some problem with an area of the lot that holds water, and questions concerning the size of parking spaces in the lot.

But the Murphys and some other members of the audience reminded the city several times that the city had held the lot out as a municipal lot for years -- even paving the property. Moran said while the city didn't have title to the lot, the city had a "nice" arrangement where the property owner allowed its use by the public for free.

Later in the meeting, Favre passed along a proposal from Brown & Mitchell Inc. to prepare "a feasibility study of parking availability and parking options in the downtown area of Bay St. Louis," at an hourly rate not to exceed a total fee of $12,000.

Council accepted the proposal without much discussion. The study, taking up to 60 days, will look at off-street parking and on street parking, including cost estimates for parking options, and recommendations that will be made to City Council.

Meanwhile, several members of the audience on planning-related issues blasted council members and the administration.

Dorothy McLeMore said while she had no position on the Murphy parking lot matter, she wanted to "remind" the city that "since 1992 we have been fooling around with a comprehensive plan."

Nothing has been adopted, she said, on the overall plan for development or the historic preservation plan that a citizens committee proposed last year to City Council.

Thrifflay blamed "sluggishness" on the part of consultants who have worked on the comprehensive plan, and recent delays in getting "legalese" definitions to complete the package.

Etheridge said city co-counsel Don Rafferty has only been asked to supply four definitions, and council's inability to come up with those definitions is "absolutely disgusting. There's no excuse," she said, other than a "stonewalling" by the administration. Rafferty was not at the meeting.

She also blasted the city for not having a current, accurate zoning map, which reflects the various special exceptions that have been made over the years. "A blind old lady with a crayon could have churned this out quicker than the city of Bay St. Louis."

Etheridge had other complaints about oversight of important matters. She cited the lack of a city lease on the parking lot, for instance, and asked if there were other such "surprises" in the wings. She also balked when it became apparent that Discount Auto Parts began construction on Highway 90, without a city Council review of a final site plan for the development.

To excuse that as a "loophole" in the site plan review process, she said, is "dereliction of duty." And she questioned whether City Council or the Planning and Zoning Commission even is familiar with what a site plan requires.

She also charged that the city's failure to adopt a comprehensive plan after seven years of consideration is inexcusable. "The only reason you don't have a nuclear waste dump out there is nobody wants to put one in," she said of the area of town annexed to accommodate Casino Magic.

The city can't zone that property until it adopts a comprehensive plan. As it stands, the city has had a building moratorium in effect for the annexed area for months, since it can't enforce zoning there at this time.

Council members agreed they should find out if Rafferty has expended any time so far on the definitions that appear to be holding up the comprehensive plan. If not, they plan on shifting the assignment to City Attorney John Scaife.

An AGAINST vote means that any landfill in Hancock County need not be owned and funded by Hancock County with tax money and may be privately owned.

Gex told supervisors he plans to refer the proposed wording that will appear on the ballot to U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno for her approval.

In other business at their recess meeting, supervisors:

- Authorized Jeff Loftus of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission to apply for a state Community Development Block Grant to help the Pearl River Water and Sewer District to begin constructing their system. The maximum funds available would be $450,000.

- Contingent on the county attorney's approval, authorized the Sheriff's Department to advertise for a new or used pickup truck to be used by the county animal warden.

- Approved paving someone $125 a month to clean up the county's North Maintenance Barn off Hwy. 43 in Kiln.

- At the request of District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour, asked county comptroller Patty Greer to check the current janitorial contract for the Human Resources Building on Longfellow Drive.

Seymour said he had several complaints that the carpets need a good cleaning and the tiled floors need rebuffering, but he did not know whether that type of work was covered under the current contract.

He said if it is required under the current contract, he wants to put the contractor on notice that the county plans to inspect the building within 30 days of his receiving notice.

Henderson, McNeel Architects. "They haven't had anybody on the job," District One board member Larry Peterson said Tuesday. "They still haven't done anything for three months."

The school district also saved about $80,000 thanks to an attorney general's opinion issued this week, school board attorney Terri Wiley told board members.

Each year, the county school district is required to reimburse the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school district for students who live on county-district owned 16-section property but who attend Bay-Waveland schools. However, Mississippi Attorney General Mike Moore upheld a law that requires Bay-

Waveland to furnish Hancock County with a list of names of the students, not just the number of students.

Since the Bay-Waveland district keeps records for only five years; it could only provide a list of names back to 1992, for which the Hancock school district was required to reimburse around $40,000.

clude Concerned Citizens to Protect the Isles and Point, Inc., Preserve Diamondhead's Quality, Inc., and the Bay St. Louis Community Association, described Pickering's ruling as "stinging."

Pickering rejected Casino World's complaint that the citizens' groups have "fought them at every turn," by reminding the plaintiffs that this is permitted in America.

"This country is dedicated to the proposition that all citizens have the right to petition the government for redress of their grievances..." the judge wrote.

He dismissed Casino World's claim that the gambling resort complex it planned to build at the south Diamondhead exit off Interstate 10 would economically benefit the county and state as "a hollow attempt" to influence him to ignore citizens' rights "which cannot be swept away for mere economic concerns."

"This court is not writing upon a clean sheet of paper in this litigation," Pickering said. "The court was previously faced with the identical issues and almost verbatim complaint and motions in Pine Hills Development Partnership et al. Gulf Islands Conservancy, Inc.," said Pickering.

Pine Hills Developers have also been issued a permit to construct a casino in Harrison County, about a half mile east down I-10 from the Casino World development, and Pickering also ruled in that case, that his court had no jurisdiction in the matter.

"The plaintiffs have presented no new arguments that were not previously addressed in the Pine Hills litigation," Pickering said.

Pickering also addressed the fact that developers and opponents have filed motions in the District Court of the District of Columbia, but said that was a different matter.

"That action is of an altogether different nature than the action filed here," Pickering noted. "The parties are aligned altogether differently. In that suit, the permit is under attack. In this suit, plaintiffs seek to avail themselves of the permit by having this court declare that it is valid and not subject to any further attack. This is the very opposite of what is being sought in the District Court in the District of Columbia," said Pickering.

"The plaintiffs cannot have it both ways. They cannot seek to claim the benefits of the permit as being valid and at the same time, say that it is invalid. If the District Court in the District of Columbia is inconvenient that is a matter for Congress to take up, not an appropriate matter for this court to decide," Pickering added.

The judge ruled he had decided not to impose sanctions or attorney fees against Casino World at this time, but he warned about future motions that might be filed by Casino World or others involved in the controversy.

"The court would caution the plaintiffs and any other groups who might be entertaining such preemptive strike litigation that this issue has been resolved insofar as any such action filed in this court. Future plaintiffs should take note of this fact," said Pickering.

Peggy Dutton, chairperson of the Bay St. Louis Community Association, called Pickering's decision timely, coming before the Independence Day celebrations.

"It's great to celebrate the 4th of July knowing that courts will rigorously uphold Americans' constitutional rights," said Dutton.

She said the opposing groups have "patiently endured months of loud and vitriolic lawsuit threats from Casino World's Director Deborah Vitale."

"It's nice to know that, in the court's eyes, she's a lot like some firecrackers we knew in our youth--just another shoo-shoo," said Dutton.

Nonnie DeBardeleben, who heads up Concerned Citizens to Protect the Isles and Point, said dismissal of the case clears the way for the District of Columbia federal judge to decide whether an environmental impact statement should be conducted on the Casino World Project.

She said Judge Pickering's ruling was "a long-overdue civics lesson for Casino World."

"This developer's tactics are simply un-American," said DeBardeleben. "Judge Pickering said that our activities are permitted under the American form of government. This country is dedicated to the proposition that all citizens have the right to petition their government for redress of their grievances, real or perceived."

Vitale, who is chairman of the board and president of Europa Cruises Corp., the proposed developers of Casino World, was not immediately available to comment on the court's ruling.

naJays Investments "is meritorious and compels this court to reverse the decision of the Board of Supervisors."

Vlahos said the subject parcel on which AnnaJays planned to build is a small portion of Lot C of Oak Harbor Subdivision. "The entire Lot C is zoned R-1 (Residential) as 95 percent of the lot is in the R-1 zone, and only five percent of the lot that borders Highway 90 lies within the C-2 (Commercial) zone," Vlahos said.

the land."

The judge said AnnaJays Investments attempted to carve out a small parcel of lot C and gain a special exception for that small parcel only.

"This action does not meet the application requirements nor does it meet the definition of a 'special exception,'" Vlahos said. "The appropriate course of action for the applicant was to reduce this small portion of Lot C to a lot of record, thereby gaining a tax parcel number, and then request a zoning amendment," Vlahos concluded.

Residents opposed to the deli, convenience store and gas station contended also that the development would promote crime, open the door on Hwy. 90 to further commercial development, diminish the quality of life in the surrounding area, and devalue residential property.

Former Rebel All-American visits home of hero

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The city of Bay St. Louis and St. Stanislaus High School had a special visitor during the course of the last few months.

Paige Cothren, a former All-American football player from the University of Mississippi, spent some time in the 'place apart' recently.

Cothren, who is an author, was in town doing some research for his next book about the game of football and his experiences with it.

Cothren released a book last football season titled "Walk Carefully Around The Dead." The book went into detail about some funny Ole Miss football stories and Cothren's experiences with a well-known coach at Ole Miss by the name of Wobbe Davidson.

Davidson had influenced numerous young lives as the freshman coach during the Johnny Vaught era on the Rebel campus.

Davidson passed away just before the release of the book.

Cothren donated the book to the M-Club Alumni Chapter at Ole Miss and its proceeds to the endowed scholarship that bears Davidson's name on the campus of Ole Miss.

It was just before Cothren began his research for his latest book that he found out an interesting fact about the game he loves so much.

Cothren's hero, whom he tried to emulate on the field, graduated from high school in Mississippi. His hero went on to a stellar three-time All-American career at West Point. His career was capped off by winning the Heisman Trophy in 1945, along with the Maxwell and Sullivan Awards. He is the only athlete in history to win all three in the same year.

Cothren's hero was also dubbed 'Mr. Inside' and considered the greatest fullback in the history of football.

Paige Cothren's hero graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1941 and goes by the name of Colonel Felix 'Doc' Blanchard.

Cothren commented on his hero, "Doc Blanchard was my hero. Everything he did, I tried to do on the field. He dominated the game like nobody else ever has. Doc Blanchard was and is football. He is larger than life."

Cothren is part of the famous athletic Poole family from the Natchez area of Mississippi. He is one of 14 Poole family and family-related members that played football at Ole Miss.

Barney Poole played football for West Point with Blanchard for a year before transferring back down to Ole Miss to finish his all-star college career.

Cothren stated, "My uncle would send us tapes to watch of the Army games. And, there was Blanchard just bowling over people. Sometimes it hurt just to watch him hit those players. I think he got the nickname 'Doc' because he sent so many people to the doctor."

"He teamed up with another back named Glen Davis who was given the nickname 'Mr. Outside.' With those two backs and the other talent on the team, Army was unstoppable."

Cothren knew that he had a family connection at the Bay St. Louis school because his cousin, Bill Poole, had coached at St. Stanislaus in the mid 1970's.

Poole coached SSC from 1976-78 and compiled a three-year record of 16-12-1, while coaching some of SSC's most memorable players.

Some of the players Poole coached were Peter Bernheim, Jay Rousseau, Gene Rogers, Bill Kergosien, Keith Pfister, Jay Hoda, Gene Hoda, Martin Hoda, Fred Keel, Juan Betanzos, Dave Boos, Bruce Morreale, David Grapusa, and Rick Senner.

Cothren admitted that Blanchard would have dominated the NFL the same way he dominated the college gridiron. Blanchard went full-time in the military and by-passed the NFL.

Cothren called Blanchard "...the greatest fullback in the history of the game and arguably the greatest player ever. There will never be another like Doc Blanchard. I think I accomplished about 10% of what my hero, Doc Blanchard, accomplished."

Cothren, himself, was also in the limelight when he played. After he finished an All-State career in football and basketball in high school, Cothren signed on to play for the Rebels in Oxford.

He played football at Ole Miss in the mid 1950s for the great Johnny Vaught. He was named to the All-SEC and All-South team in 1955 and 1956. In 1956, he was named to the All-American team and finished fifth in the Heisman Trophy voting.

He played his pro football with the Los Angeles Rams and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Luzenburg, Williams claim wins at Sun Coast Speedway

Jamie Luzenburg claimed his first victory of the season in the familiar number 81, which Billy Joe Schonewitz is normally associated with.

Rickey Hankins was once again on the pole alongside Treavor Boyd for the start of the race. Boyd appeared to get a little loose going into turn two on the green flag lap, causing Marty Harty to cross up. This collected Neal Temple and Tracy Brown, although both were able to continue after they were untangled. Hankins took the lead, as he usually does and looked as though he would claim yet another win.

Hankins was battling a carburetor problem from the beginning whenever they made laps under the caution, with only a couple of laps remaining he appeared to have problems coming up to speed as they came out of turn four, causing him and Luzenburg to make contact.

This resulted in Hankins' car coasting to a stop on the back stretch, unable to finish the race. Luzenburg had been running strong from the start and was able to hold off a hard-charging Bubba Schonewitz to claim the win.

Schonewitz had his hands full holding Danny Somers and Tracy Brown to the third and fourth spots. Boyd rounded out the top five. Temple and Heath Oestrecher were both heat race winners.

Mike Paillou and Mitchell Williams headed a field of 13 Pro Stocks as they took the green flag for the start of their feature race. Paillou and Williams ran side by side in the early going before Williams claimed the lead.

Paillou was able to move past Williams at one point, but could not make the pass stick as Williams retook the lead. Several laps later Paillou had to retire with heating problems, along with Mike Ladner and Randy Eaton, two former winners, also retiring with mechanical problems.

This allowed Rodney Bruce and Bill Stewart to move into the top three behind Williams as they made their way to the checkers. Ladner and Walter Gibbs were earlier heat race winners.

Wallace Allen added another IMCA feature win to his list, but not without a hard-fought battle with heat winner Donald Parker. Ron Tubbs outdueling Ben Stephens for the third spot while Robert Casada finished in the fifth spot.

Rodney Barber went on a flag-to-flag run for the feature win in the Street Stock feature. Curt Danley won his first ever pole starting spot alongside Barber, but was unable to stay among the leaders.

Danny Lee and Roger Lacoste were string contenders before both went out with mechanical problems. This allowed Terry Cuevas and heat winner Lowell Turan to finish behind Barber for one of their better showings of the season. Steve Pate II rounded out the top four, while Thomas Bryant won his first ever heat race in this class.

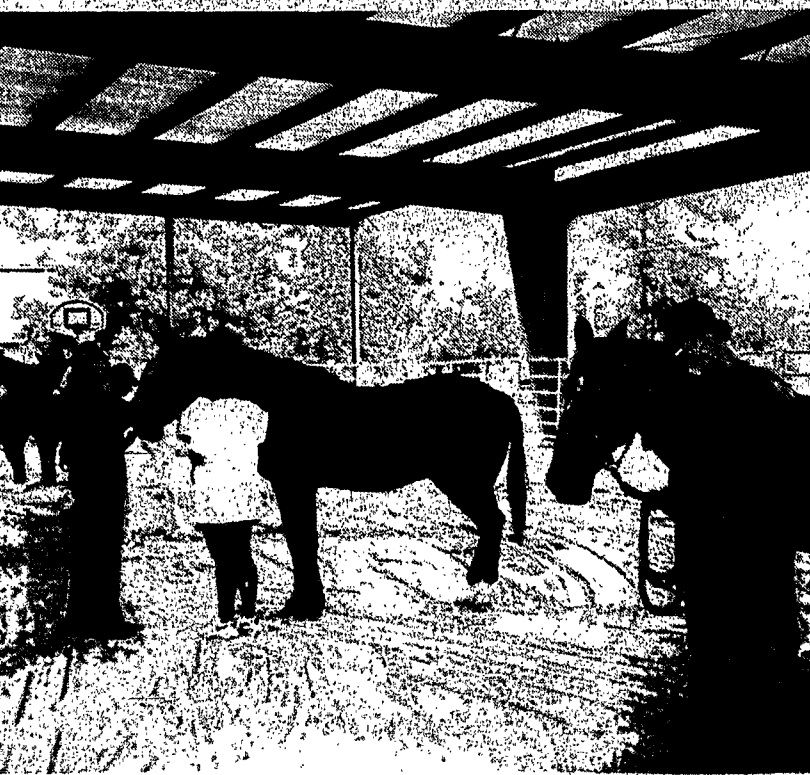

Roger Ladner won both heat and feature races in a light field of Rookies. Ron Davis and Lori McQueen chased Ladner to the checkers.

Next week will feature the Cajun Sprinter

Fire Dogs tame Stallions

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Mississippi Fire Dogs have taken their three-game homestand very seriously, reeling off three victories in as many tries.

On Saturday, before approximately 4100 fans, Mississippi survived an Idaho Stallion scare by the score of 42-36.

The win moved the Fire Dogs to an even record of 6-6 and kept them in the playoff race at third place in the league.

It didn't take long for the Stallions to show they were here to play. In the first six minutes of play, the Stallions jumped out to a 14-0 lead on two touchdown passes from quarterback Travis Stuart.

The first scoring pass from Stuart was a 32-yard strike to Shaun King with 13:45 left to play in the first quarter.

The point-after-touchdown (PAT) was good making the score 7-0.

The second touchdown pass was a 22-yard pass to Ricky Ross with 8:02 left to play in the opening period. The PAT was good making the score 14-0.

Mississippi was finally able to capitalize as Brad Hignight pounced on a loose ball played after Brad Rhodes missed a 39-yard field goal attempt with 4:03 left in the first quarter.

The ball was recovered on the Stallions' five yardline.

Running back Buster Browne put up the first points for the Fire Dogs as he ramled in from three yards out for the score.

The PAT by Rhodes was good making the score 14-7 with 3:12 left to play in the first.

On the Stallions' next possession, Idaho increased their lead on a Yasa 26-yard two-point field goal attempt with 24 seconds left in the opening period. The score increased 16-7.

The last 24 seconds of the period were wild. Mississippi quarterback Stu Rayborn was intercepted at the Idaho five yardline. However, on the Stallions' first play of the possession, Mississippi Fire Dog defensive back Dalton Simmons tipped an errant pass to Roy Stabler who hauled in the loose ball for Mississippi.

With a new set of downs, Rayborn went to work. Three plays later, Rayborn connected with Nicky Seymour on an eight-yard scoring pass. Rhodes made good on the PAT and the score was 16-14 with 10:45 remaining in the first half.

Mississippi took their first lead of the game when Rayborn hooked up with Seymour again. This time the scoring strike was a 17-yard pass at the 6:11 mark of the second quarter.

Rhodes missed on the PAT, leaving the score 20-16.

Idaho reclaimed their lead two plays later as Stuart found King for an eight yard scoring pass with 4:03 left in the half. The PAT was good making the score 23-20.

The Stallions added to their lead when Stuart found Ross for a 31-yard score with 1:20 left in the second. The PAT was good making the score 30-20.

With 35 seconds remaining, Rayborn gave the Fire Dogs the momentum going into intermission as he found Kenny Causey in the endzone for a nine-yard score.

Rhodes' PAT was no good leaving the score at 30-26.

Stabler intercepted Stuart for the second time in the half to run out the clock.

The Fire Dogs opened the second half on something of a confusing note. On the third play of the half, Rayborn was intercepted; however, the turnover was nullified because of a Stallion penalty.

Later in the drive, the Fire Dogs settled for a 48-yard three-point field goal attempt by Rhodes that fell way short.

On the return of the kicked ball, Ross fumbled in the endzone for the Stallions and Browne recovered the loose ball for a Fire Dog touchdown.

Rhodes' PAT was good, giving the Fire Dogs a 33-30 lead with 10:54 left in the third.

With less than two minutes remaining in the third quarter, Stuart broke the plane for the Stallions on a one-yard scamper. The PAT missed leaving the Stallions up just 36-33.

With John Fourcade behind center for the Fire Dogs, Mississippi reclaimed the lead with a 21-yard scoring pass to Causey with 14:40 left in the fourth quarter. The PAT by Rhodes was good, making the score 40-36.

With 4:33 left to play, Rhodes added some insurance for the Fire Dogs with a two-point field goal of 31 yards. The good kick made the score 42-36.

Fire Dog defensive back Mark Keith Taylor ended a Stallion scoring opportunity when he intercepted a Stuart pass in the endzone.

Taylor commented about his win preserving interception, "I just came out and played my best tonight after missing the last two games. I am just happy to be back playing and helping the team win."

"We have to travel to Texas this week and it will be a tough one. I think that we can get another win over Texas but our defense will have to start out fast. We can't start slow like tonight."

The next home game for the Fire Dogs will be July 17 against Hawaii.

Fitness training possible during travel

By Gary Smith

Routine fitness training is a major component of a health conscious lifestyle. The benefits of muscle tone, flexibility, strength and endurance are well deserved rewards for training on a regular basis. The prospect of missing too many workouts in a row brings to mind the counterproductive realities of decreased energy and softening muscle tone.

It is not necessary to lose hard-earned fitness progress during periods of extended travel. A little determination along with some resourcefulness should prevent the dreaded break in training while traveling.

Prior to departure, research fitness facilities that are located at the final destination. If one has a membership with a major franchise, information on nationwide locations should be available. Otherwise, most libraries have telephone books of many cities on microfilm. Check listings under "Exercise Programs," "Gymnasiums," or "Health Clubs."

After arrival, when time permits, it is a simple matter of obtaining directions and finding the facility. Once there, a guest fee (usually $5 to $10) is required. Then, the enjoyment begins by training in a different environment and meeting new people. If the stay is lengthy, inquire about the cost of a short-term membership as opposed to paying daily guest fees.

Horton second

Charlie Horton of Diamond-head took second place in the Marion Jayne cross country air race last week.

He remains in line for the title of Grand Champion, and will enter four more major air races before the end of the year.

term membership as opposed to paying daily guest fees.

A general recommendation when training while traveling is to conform with the same fitness routine used at home. Keep in mind that the objective is to maintain rather than increase. Light workouts may be in order, considering factors such as travel fatigue and new surroundings.

If the journey is by car to a location devoid of gyms or health clubs, bring a pair of light dumbbells and an exercise mat. Warm up first by walking or jogging in place. Proceed to stretching and abdominal exercises like side twists, crunches, or leg raises. The dumbbell routine might include exercises such as presses, butterflies, triceps extensions, curls, squats, rowing, and calf raises. All of these exercises can be done in a motel or guest room. Do three or four sets of 10 to 12 repetitions of selected exercises.

Since it may be impossible to bring dumbbells on a trip, there are various light-weight and compact exercise devices available in sporting goods or department stores. The primary consideration is selecting a portable piece of equipment that works a wide variety of muscle groups. It may be necessary to supplement the portable exercise device with basic calisthenics to obtain a complete workout.

Traveling does not necessitate a break in training. Working out in different locations can be interesting, productive, and enjoyable.

Boz Scaggs comes to Grand Casino Biloxi

Boz Scaggs began his musical career in the 1960's with fellow guitarist Steve Miller. Originally, the two formed a group in high school called the Marksmen. Their musical relationship continued into college, but Scaggs soon decided to try a musical venture in Europe.

Scaggs enjoyed limited success particularly in Sweden, but an invitation by Steve Miller to return to the United States was an offer he couldn't refuse. Scaggs recorded two albums with the Steve Miller Band, but again left to further pursue his solo career.

Scaggs released a number of critically acclaimed solo records in the late 1960's and early 1970's, but it was his Silk Degrees album in 1976 that was his first solo breakthrough attempt.

"Lido Shuffle" and "Lowdown" were two hits from the album that helped ignite a musical legacy that blends rock and R&B into his distinct style. After taking some time off during the 1980's, Scaggs returned to recording and touring.

Back strong in 1997, Scaggs released a blues-compilation album, Come On Home, which received a Grammy nomination for Best Contemporary Blues Album, and Anthology, a career-spanning retrospective from 1969-1997, including work from Come On Home.

"I've wanted to do this rhythm and blues album for a long time," says Scaggs. "I grew up on this music, and this record is a tribute to some of my heroes..."

Boz Scaggs will be performing at the Biloxi Grand Theatre for one show only, Friday, July 23 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $24.95/floor, $19.95/balcony.

For details, call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN ext. 2804. Tickets are also available at TicketMaster outlets.
